Chip Gillis said, “It has been my privilege to be part of Athene -- from the vision of what could be built in Bermuda, to executing the first transactions, to participating in the company's tremendous growth and delivering innovative solutions. I want to express my deep appreciation to Jim, to my colleagues, to our clients who chose us as a partner to enhance their business, and to my partners in the Bermuda financial community who have made this professional chapter so fulfilling.”

Over the coming months, Sean Brennan, Senior Vice President and Head of Pension Risk Transfer (PRT) at Athene, will begin to oversee the flow reinsurance business while continuing to lead the PRT channel. In this new capacity, Mr. Brennan will continue to report to Bill Wheeler, President, Athene.

“Sean has been instrumental in raising the profile of and growing our pension risk transfer business,” said Mr. Wheeler. “We are excited about this opportunity for Sean as he will be able to oversee ALRe’s plans to build upon the excellent foundation that Chip established and expand opportunities for development within our reinsurance business.”
